Student story 5

This story is based around people in my class.

If you go to the Kinders or the Grade 3s classroom or some other younger students and if you would show them a picture of religious activities or something, they would probably laugh or make an inconsiderate comment. But in our classroom we’ve evolved more than that and instead of saying, if for example somebody shaved their head for religious reasons, we wouldn’t say, ‘Wow, I wonder why they do that?’ or laugh at them or something. We would respect them and understand why they’ve done that and yes.

[It’s an important change]... because it shows we’ve evolved and how the values has helped us become more mature, adjusted kids and it’s a great thing to have in your older life and it will help you make friends with people and get along.
